POSTMASTER YET AT DANGER POINT

HON. EDGAR ALLAN, JR.

Condition of Edgar Allan, Jr. Though Improved, Gives Cause for Apprehension.

To allay rumors current in the city concerning the condition of Edgar Allan, Jr., who is seriously ill in St. Luke's Hospital, a formal statement was given out last night to The Times-Dispatch by Dr. M. O. Burke in regard to the illness of the postmaster.

"While Mr. Allan has been desperately ill," said Dr. Burke, "we believe that he is now practically out of danger. Signs of improvement in his condition are noticeable daily, and the worst seems to have passed. We have every expectation that Mr. Allan will recover."

While not willing to admit that his patient was in extremis, as was commonly reported, Dr. Burke was not willing to declare Mr. Allan absolutely out of danger. The truth of the matter is that the postmaster for several days has been at death's door, and even though indications yesterday were that he was taking a turn for the better, all the apprehension of vital trouble has not been allayed.

As his condition stands, unless unexpected troubles and setbacks appear, the physician expects Mr. Allan to recover ultimately, but his present weakness prevents the positive assertion that he will regain his grip on life.

This is the fourth week that Mr. Allan has been in the hospital, and he is greatly weakened by suffering and the days of inactivity. He is far too ill to allow any one to be admitted to his room.

It is understood that it was the original intention of the physicians, when Mr. Allan was taken to the hospital, to operate, but conditions which developed later put this out of the question, certainly for the time being. Dr. Burke said that the attending physicians had formed no conception of standing an operation. About a year ago the postmaster underwent an operation for appendicitis and made a famous recovery. On preliminary diagnosis several weeks ago, Mr. Allan's condition did not appear as severe as it afterwards proved to be, and the fourth week of his illness, which Mr. Allan anticipated when he laid down his office chair, has evolved into a desperate fight for life.

Edgar Allan, Jr., was appointed postmaster of Richmond in 1909 to succeed Royal E. Cabell, who gave up the office to become United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue at the invitation of President Taft. Mr. Allan was appointed for a term of four years by President Taft, and his commission will expire in December, 1913.

DENY POLITICS IN ALLEN APPEAL

Interesting Talk About Capitol. Effect of Verdict in Sidna Allen Case.

Denial was made yesterday of the persistent rumors that have been heard about the Capitol during the past few days to the effect that political influences are controlling the efforts of those who seek commutation of sentence of Claude Swanson Allen. Such reports have been and are persistent.

Attention has been called to the fact that Claude Allen was named for Senator Claude A. Swanson, and that the Allen family, uncertain and wavering in politics as it has been, always supported Mr. Swanson in his contests for Congress in the Fifth District. The fact that a Danville paper, which is supposed not to speak without authority, was first to advocate clemency for the Allen, is also referred to in this connection, as has been the activity of some of those who are said to be generally heard from in the same connection when there is anything to be done, together with the apparently concerted outburst of Allen sentiment.

But this was denied yesterday. Judge W. P. Rhea, of the State Corporation Commission, said he had no reason to think there was anything political in the movement. His own attitude has been misinterpreted. He agreed to sign a petition asking for commutation of Claude Allen's sentence to imprisonment for life, but refused to sign a similar paper in behalf of Floyd Allen. He went to Washington, not to see the Senators, for Senator Martin was not there, and he did not know Senator Swanson was in the city until he arrived.

There was a revival yesterday of petitions for the condemned men. They were quite generally in circulation in hotel lobbies and bar rooms of this city.

There was a good deal of discussion yesterday over the effect which the verdict of the jury in the Sidna Allen case would have on the action of the Governor. It was felt by some that the fact that the older man, who went so far as to fire into the body of Judge Massey while the jurist was dying on the floor, was given only a prison term, would militate in favor of the boy, who is not shown to have been so bloodthirsty. It was not thought, however, that it would help Floyd Allen, who began the trouble by uttering a defiance of the law and the courts.

In view, however, of the fact that Sidna Allen will be tried again for the murder of Commonwealth's Attorney Foster, on the second of the five indictments against the first trial of Sidna will make no difference in the attitude of the executive. He refused yesterday to comment on the verdict in any way.

BILLIARD CLUB CASE DISMISSED

Desperate Attempts Made to Spell "Amateur"—Supreme Court Proceedings.

By agreement of the city of Richmond its case against the Amateur Billiard Club was dismissed yesterday in the Supreme Court of Appeals. The city claimed and assessed a license tax against the club for conducting a billiard room, and the club was held to pay the license of $15 for 1910. The defense was that it was a purely mutual concern, without profit to any member, and it appealed to the Hustings Court, where the judgment was affirmed, and then to the Supreme Court. The club is now out of business, and it is supposed the city cared to go no further with the matter. The incorporators were K. B. Savage, John Poege and D. W. Calvin.

Spelling is a feature of this case. In the warrant signed by Police Justice Crutchfield the word "amateur" is spelled "amature" in every case, and is printed in italics in the record to call attention to the mistake. In the brief for the appellants the word is spelled "amaturus," introducing still another variation.

In the Supreme Court yesterday the case of Leary vs. Briggs was argued by Robert A. Hutchison for the appellant, and by Judge C. E. Nicol for the appellee, and submitted.

The case of Mitchell vs. Williams was argued by Mr. Grimsley for the appellant, and by J. L. Jeffries for the appellee, and submitted.

That of Roach vs. Southern Railway Company was argued by John L. Lee for the appellant, and by William Leigh for the appellee, and submitted.

Next cases to be called: Seville, clerk, vs. Virginia Railway and Power Company, Culpeper National Bank vs. Walter & Walter, Moore vs. Harrison, Jarvis et al. vs. Spady et al.

LABOR CASES TRIED

Many Convictions Secured in Police Court.

Labor Commissioner James B. Doherty is notified by Inspector J. B. Clinedinst of the successful prosecution of cases against labor law violators in the Police Court yesterday. Twenty-one of the offenders were found guilty with the law requiring sanitary arrangements, and convictions resulted in fines and costs each, while the other seven were merely assessed with costs in view of the fact that they have begun work on the necessary arrangements.

One case of failure to provide seats for female employees resulted in a fine of $5 and costs. Seven cases charging violation of the ten-hour law for women in mercantile establishments were dismissed, the court holding that the extension of the law to work-shops connected with stores.

Fined for Disorder

William Childers was fined $10 and costs yesterday in Police Court for being drunk and disorderly in the street.

FORREST SAYS POE KNEW BIBLE WELL

Professor Takes Issue With Those Who Slight Poe's Biblical Acquaintance.

"It has been often said of Edgar Allan Poe that no work needed the influence of the Bible more than his, and that none showed such a woeful lack of scriptural touches, but I shall have to disagree with any such pronouncement. I have personally gone over almost everything that Poe wrote, and while I cannot give figures until I complete the work, I can say that that are literally hundreds of places in Poe's poetry and prose where he shows the results of a close study of the Bible."

So spoke Dr. W. W. Forrest, of the University of Virginia, on "Literary Influence of the English Bible," at the John Marshall High School last night in the first of a series of extension lectures which will be given in Richmond this winter, by members of the University of Virginia faculty. Dr. Forrest pointed out Poe's "Shadows," as a concrete example of a composition from his pen showing the influence of Bible study.

In his lecture Dr. Forrest traced the history of the English Bible from the days of Wycliffe and Tyndale until the present time, showing briefly that Wycliffe gave impetus to the movement for its translation into English, the pungency of expression, and Coverdale the form of language.

He pointed out various writers on whom his influences are readily perceptible. In closing, he recounted a number of ways in which Bible reading would benefit the person who writes English to-day. In this connection he alluded to the quality of brevity which he said was lacking from modern compositions.

"I wonder," he said, "what a reporter for a great New York newspaper would have written about the creation of the headline 'Contrast such a method, with the short, simple sentences in the Bible and you have a lesson in brevity which can nowhere be excelled.'"

About 300 persons heard the lecture. Professor J. C. Harwood, who presided, announced that the next lecture of the series would be delivered on December 6 by Professor W. M. Hundley, on the subject "Education for Citizenship." A third lecture will come on January 10, and will be delivered by Professor W. H. DaViney on "What the Present Owe to the Past."

RAILROAD RATES FOR WILSON DAY

Reduced Prices on All Roads for Big Celebration—More Organizations Join.

For the State-wide Wilson celebration next Tuesday night, the railway lines in this State have made round-trip rates of 3 cents per mile plus 25 cents tickets will be on sale November 25 and 26, going journey to begin on date of sale. The tickets are to be limited to reach the original starting point not later than midnight of November 27, 1912. The passage must be continuous in each direction.

A similar rate has been made to Richmond from all points in Virginia to attend the Educational Conference this week, and the tickets issued on this account will be good until midnight of December 1. For the educational conference, tickets will also be issued from the city of Washington.

The railroads, which yesterday announced these concessions to Chairman Charles V. Carrington, of the appropriate committee, are as follows: Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk and Western, Atlantic Coast Line, Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac, Seaboard Air Line, Southern, Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis, and the Virginia Railway and Power Company.

This low rate helps to insure a big crowd for the celebration. The distribution of flambeaux and torches will be begun this morning at the headquarters of the committees, at 508 East Broad Street. A force of men was busy last night putting the torches together.

Several more organizations filed their names yesterday with Chairman Frank Ferrandini as desiring to march in the parade, and were assigned places.

Following are the organizations so far recorded: Richmond Howitzers, Richmond Light Infantry Blues, First Virginia Infantry, Police Department, Fire Department, Southside Democratic Club, Old Dominion Democratic Club, John W. Daniel Democratic Club, East End Democratic Progressive Club, Henry Clay Club, Italian-American Political Association, Benedictine College cadets, Boys' Brigade, Masses Business College, John Marshall High School boys, Street Cleaning Department, Gas Department, Water Department, City Engineer's Department, University of Virginia Alumni Association, Medical College of Virginia, United States College of Medicine, Richmond Locomotive Works, Blues Band, Kessicks' Municipal Band, Petersburg Band, Sumner Grotto, East End Citizens' Association of Jefferson Ward, Old Dominion Motorcycle Club.

The aides to the chief marshal, who will be mounted, have been requested to wear dark suits and black derby hats.

SPAULDING SENT BACK TO REGIMENT

Army Officer Leaves Virginia. Gives Good Report of State's Field Artillery.

Captain Oliver L. Spaulding, Jr., Fourth Field Artillery, who has been for two years inspector-instructor for the War Department with the Virginia Volunteers, has been ordered to rejoin his regiment, which is stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming. The order is effective December 2.

General regret is expressed at the removal of Captain Spaulding, whose work with the field artillery of this State has met with the approval of officers and men. He is compelled to leave under the rule of the department that no officer may remain away from his command on detached duty for more than four years out of every six years.

The name of Captain Spaulding's successor has not yet been announced. He will return to Richmond before the date set for his formal retirement from service here.

In a report made to Adjutant-General W. W. Sale in regard to the course of instruction taken by him for the Virginia batteries in 1912, Captain Spaulding pays this remarkable compliment to the soldiers under command of Major T. M. Wortham, comprising the Richmond Howitzers, Norfolk Light Artillery Blues and Grimes Battery, of Portsmouth:

"Officers and enlisted men, almost without exception, have showed most praiseworthy zeal; the records of those officers who were able to attend the schools at Fort Sill and Fort Riley were generally very good. I believe the prospects for a successful year in 1913 are good, and I regret that, owing to other duty assigned me, I shall no longer be able to keep in personal touch with the Virginia battalion."

DECISION TO-MORROW

Rev. H. H. Knight Will Tell Congregation of Calvary Church What He Will Do.

Rev. H. H. Knight, whose resignation from the pastorate of the Calvary Baptist Church last Sunday brought forth considerable protest from the congregation, returned to the city yesterday after several days' absence, and had one of two meetings with the committee appointed by his parishioners on last Wednesday night to urge that he remain in Richmond.

Rev. Knight said last night that he had yet reached no definite conclusion with regard to his resignation, but that he would probably be able to announce his final decision to-morrow morning.

The church has shown in regard to his resignation, said Rev. Knight, "and I am going to give the matter a thorough reconsideration." At a meeting of the church members, held on Wednesday night, strong resolutions were passed regarding Rev. Knight's resignation, and it was decided that the church would support him in his decision.
